Bristol

At Newmedica, we have some of the UK's leading consultant ophthalmologists who specialise in the treatment of advanced eye conditions. Our surgical centres are owned and led by the consultants, who hand pick their teams to ensure the right care is provided.

Why choose Newmedica?

Better clinical outcomes

Surgical complication rates are significantly below the norm, with posterior capsular rupture (PCR) at 0.31% compared to the national benchmark of 1.1%, so you can rest assured your patients will receive the best care.

Higher quality intraocular lenses

For NHS cataract patients, we use high-quality intraocular lenses designed to support strong clinical outcomes, with the lowest posterior capsule opacification (PCO) rate on the market. This decreases the likelihood on needing YAG in future.

For private patients, a range of specialist lens options are available to meet individual lifestyle needs.

Short waiting times

Our short waiting times mean your patients will have their first appointment within a couple of weeks. NHS wait times to treatment are in line with local ICB requirements.

Private patients can start treatment within as little as two weeks.

Why choose Newmedica?

Free transport and reassurance when it's needed most

We take the time to get to know your patients, offer to hold their hand or play their preferred music in theatre, and provide free transport for those who need it.

Broader ophthalmology services to meet more of your patients' needs

Our consultant ophthalmologists specialise in treating a wide range of eye conditions for the NHS and privately, including glaucoma, YAG and VR. That means the same familiar faces for you and your patients, and it often means more complex patients can also benefit from our services.

Continuity of care delivering 99% satisfaction

Our consultant ophthalmologists and their experienced teams are a consistent presence in our surgical centres so you, and your patients, get to know the team they can trust.
